
affects attribute

Posted by redlaguna - 2008/12/12 17:37

Hi the new version don't support the "affects" attribute of the past version? why? :(

=====

Re:affects attribute

Posted by stiggs - 2008/12/12 20:48

Sorry, but I removed the "affects" attribute, because the same functionality (and more) can now be used with the "special" attribute.

Do you really need it? So maybe, I can add it again.

=====

Re:affects attribute

Posted by redlaguna - 2008/12/12 22:41

I'm sorry too, but I've studied and I do not understand how you do that, I need to select a color and that affects me several styles of the templates of the CB.

for example, in my current elements I have this:

background-color

background-image
background-repeat

as you can see, I want to select a color that in addition to taking the courage to mainbodyinner # residing in the template joomla also take it to. tabpage; and tab.selected. tab residing in the template of CB

You can explain to me how it's done with the function "special" and that does not affect the style sheets that members have already customized with the previous version.

=====

Re:affects attribute

Posted by redlaguna - 2008/12/31 20:32

any?

=====

Re:affects attribute

Posted by hivver - 2009/12/01 22:18

nevermind i figured.

=====